DOCUMENT RESUME

ED 478 028 HE 035 988

AUTHOR	Cornford, James; Pollock, Neil
TITLE	Putting the University Online: Information, Technology and Organizational Change.
INSTITUTION	Society for Research into Higher Education, Ltd., London (England).
ISBN	ISBN-0-335-21005-8
PUB DATE	2003-00-00
NOTE	121p.; Published by Open University Press.
CONTRACT	R000223276
AVAILABLE FROM	Routledge Customer Service, 10650 Toebben Drive, Independence, KY 41051 (hardback: ISBN-0-3352-1006-6, $95; paperback: ISBN-0-3352-1005-8, $30.95). Tel: 800-634-7064 (Toll Free); Fax: 800-248-4724 (Toll Free); e-mail: cserve@routledge-ny.com; Web site: http://www.routledge-ny.com/ .
PUB TYPE	Books (010) -- Reports - Descriptive (141)
EDRS PRICE	Document Not Available From EDRS.
DESCRIPTORS	Distance Education; *Educational Technology; Higher Education; Online Courses; *Online Systems; *Technological Advancement; *Virtual Universities

ABSTRACT

This book explores what new technology and the vision of a virtual university mean for an institution and its staff, students and other stakeholders, and the consequences for the role and identity of the university of "putting the university online." Chapters are: (1) "The Online Imperative"; (2) "Researching Changing Universities"; (3) "Working through the Work of Making Work Mobile"; (4) "The Campus and the Online University"; (5) "The Online University as Timely and Accurate Information"; (6) "Keeping Up Standards: The Virtual University Is the University Made Concrete"; (7) "Customizing Industry Standard Systems for Universities"; (8) "Campus Management and the Self-Service Student"; and (9) "Reflection and Conclusion." (Contains 136 references.) (SLD)

Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original document.